Homework:

Worksheets are provided to get you to interact directly with the Scripture week-by-week, even the week that we don't have class. While the exercises are easy to understand, they do take some thought, so it is best to leave yourself enough time to complete them.

Extra Resources:

This study is intended to open the door for your own continued study of this section of Scripture, or for when you teach it in the future. I will include some extra resources that we will not cover during the study time but will be useful for you as you continue on your own.

As we go along, I will post notes/resources to www.stronghands10.com.
